

The Kransky Sisters

Winners of The Sydney Theatre Award, The Bank Of Scotland Herald Angel Award, The Melbourne Age Critic's Award, Australian Green Room award for Best Cabaret Ensemble, Barry Award Nomination and the prestigious Australian Entertainment Mo Award, these three talented women, combine their eclectic comedic talents and musical expertise to create a disturbingly believable trio.

Witness the lilting harmonies and off-beat humour of the sisters as they accompany themselves on an old 60's reed keyboard, Tuba, Musical-Saw, kitchen pot, toilet brush and fervently shaken, duelling tambourines. This oddly curious musical act, drawing on naiveté, spinsterhood and the somewhat gothic existence that forms the world of these eccentric sisters, is not to be missed.

These oddball and endearing sisters venture far from the dusty curtained private world of their family home in Esk, Rural Queensland, Mournie, Eve, and their oddly reclusive rather peculiar sibling, Dawn Kransky, share darkly funny stories from across the countryside. In their uniquely homespun versions of popular tunes heard on the old wireless, they cover songs from The Eurythmics and Talking Heads, to ACDC and Steppenwolf. The combination of their strange behavior, blinkered outlooks, superbly droll comic dialogue, and alluring downright hilarious brand of tune, all makes for a highly entertaining brew.

"A musical act like no other. If Dame Edna ever retired to the Outback and procreated, the result might be something like the Kranskys." The Scotsman, Edinburgh

"The Kranskys are an absolute delight. Hurrah for a proper fringe oddity. The women behind the Kranskys have succeeded in creating a perfect self-contained parallel universe rich with possibilities. The cult starts here" Edinburgh Chortle

"Like the acid fuelled imagination of Hunter. S.Thompson at a Country Women's Association meeting, this unstuck comic creation is bizarre and precious... These women are the comedic equivalent of Star Trek. So complete and meticulous is their creation, you can almost imagine a future of Kransky conventions."
The Age,

"The Kransky Sisters are a well oiled comic machine. Their droll humour, deadpan expressions and morose delivery of songs by the likes of AC/DC and The Eurythmics proved to be the perfect recipe for laughter." Sunday Times Review Perth

'Like watching a witches coven at band practice', the Kranskys will draw you in with their alluring brew of uniquely homespun versions of popular tunes and darkly funny tales of rural Australia. Not unlike a cross between the Sugar babes and the Adams family. The cult starts here!'
