

Anh Do

- * Winner - Sydney Comedian of the Year.
- * Winner - National Green Faces Comedy Competition.
- * Winner - NSW Triple J Raw Comedy Competition.

Anh Do is an accomplished writer, actor, producer and stand-up comedian.

After bagging all the comedy awards around town, including the Sydney Comedian of the Year, and appearing on all the TV shows that feature comedians, including “Thank God You’re Here” and “Rove Live”, Anh finally realized that those regular gigs at Rooty Hill bikers club would one day get him killed, so he has since supplemented the income with acting, film producing and writing.

2006 saw the release of “Footy Legends” in which Anh was the star alongside Claudia Karvan and Matthew Johns. In 2003 Anh co-produced the film “The Finished People” (Post 75 Productions). It was described by Margaret Pomeranz as ‘one of the best Australian films of the year’.

Even though he is a terrible dancer, Anh got to the grand final of “Dancing with the Stars”, being a huge favourite with the voting home audience. This success saw him offered his own TV show “Made in China with Anh Do” – an Olympics special which rated through the roof. Anh has more of his own TV projects in the pipeline.

Anh is also a regular on “The Footy Show” and has been seen on “Spicks and Specks” as well as “Seachange”, and “All Saints”.

Anh is still one of the most sought after stand-up comedians in Australia. His completely clean material and friendly stage manner makes him one of Australia’s most popular corporate comedians, having entertained clients ranging from The Commonwealth Bank to Hallmark Cards to IBM. He is used again and again as an MC and comic by many companies who enjoy the warmth and joy he brings to an evening.

And right at the end of the biography (cos its something he doesn’t like to admit), in 1999 Anh completed a Bachelor of Business and was 6 months away from completing a Bachelor of Laws at the University of Technology, Sydney. The threat of having to go back to finish his law degree ensures that Anh works hard at his acting and comedy career. So far he is doing superbly.
