

CAMERON JAMES

BIOGRAPHY

Cameron James is an up-and-coming comedian and troublemaker. He came second in Triple J's Raw Comedy. He was called the "Next Big Thing" by Time Out. He has been funny on ABC, Triple J, on stages around the country and in conversations with peoples' mothers.

CJ has gained a reputation for a wide range of observational and confessional material; allowing for comfort on all stages from comedy clubs, to alternative rooms, to the Sydney Opera House (once... in a stage show... he had one line...) His confident and laid back approach, killer crowd work and improvisers guts back him as a sought out feature act, and a natural host. Just this year, CJ has been lucky enough to tour nationally as an opening act for US comic, Ari Shaffir, play alongside Tommy Little and Celia Pacquola for over two thousand people at Splendour in the Grass and MC Dave Hughes at a small comedy room in Melbourne.

Since placing second in 2012s Raw Comedy Competition, out of thousands of hopeful open mic comedians, Cameron has been working hard and non-stop. With recent acting credits on ABC sketch show, "How Not to Behave" and "The Roast", multiple appearances on Triple J and two critically acclaimed touring shows, "Cactus Blastus" (4 stars, Herald Sun 2015) and "Paradise" (4.5 stars, Adelaide Advertiser 2014) including sold out runs at Perth Fringe World, Adelaide Fringe, Sydney Fringe, Sydney Comedy Festival, Bondi Feast and the Melbourne International Comedy Festival.

Cameron James is clearly a new comedy talent with a big future. He thinks you should listen to music loud, never litter and be good to your mother.
