

David Collins

Although David is better known to audiences around the world as one half of the Umbilical Brothers, he is also an actor who enjoys both dramatic and comic roles.

In film, he won Best Actor at the worlds largest short film competition Tropfest for his film Silencer, which he also co-wrote and directed. David plays Arnie the Ant in the Maya the Bee movies, has worked for Kennedy Miller on Happy Feet 2, and recently starred in the movie Red Christmas.

On television David co-created and performed in the Emmy winning Upside Down Show. Last year he played a Zombie in Drop Dead Weird (filming 2nd season this year), a clean freak in Oh Yuck! before Disney grabbed him for The Book Of Once Upon A Time.

On stage he co-wrote and performed The Luck Child at Sydney Theatre Co, which was the recipient of Best Production for Children at both The Sydney Theatre Awards and Adelaide Fringe.
